Bird At The Buzzer Uconn

A decade later, Bird at the Buzzer: UConn, Notre Dame, and a Women's Basketball Classic (University of Nebraska Press, 2011) is Goldberg's tale of that dramatic game, a tight back-and-forth struggle in which the playing career of All-American Shea Ralph ended with another knee injury, a freshman from California named Diana Taurasi fouled out, and Sue Bird brought the Huskies back by scoring the game's last five points, including a buzzer-beater that won the championship.

Bird at the Buzzer - UConn Today

On March 6, 2001, the top two women's college basketball teams in the nation, UConn and Notre Dame, played what was arguably the greatest game in the history of the sport. When UConn's Sue Bird hit a twelve-foot pull-up jumper at the buzzer over national player of the year Ruth Riley in the Big East Tournament championship game, it marked the end of an epic contest that featured five future Olympians and eight first-round WNBA selections.
